

Survey: HIV Media Communication for Young People

Wednesday, 16 May 2007

Last Updated Wednesday, 16 May 2007

The Faculty of Health Sciences in the University of Sydney are conducting a survey concerning the role of media in communication and education of young people about HIV (Human Immunodeficiency Virus), AIDS (Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome) and STI (Sexually Transmitted Infections). If you are 18-28 years old and are interested in participating in the online survey, please click here.